This report describes changes to the Fund that occurred during the reporting period.

WHAT WERE THE FUND'S COSTS FOR THE LAST YEAR?

(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

CLASS NAME	COSTS OF A $10,000 INVESTMENT	COSTS PAID AS A PERCENTAGE OF A $10,000 INVESTMENT
Institutional Class	$86	0.85%

HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM THE PAST YEAR?

The Vulcan Value Partners Fund Institutional Class (the "Fund") returned 2.64% versus 31.05% for the S&P 500 Total Return Index, the Fund's broad-based securities market index, and 29.25% for the Russell 1000 Value Index, the Fund's additional index, for the fiscal year ended April 30, 2026.

Alphabet, Inc. was the top contributor to performance, driven by accelerating Google Cloud profitability coupled with an expanding enterprise backlog and a favorable Department of Justice antitrust remedies decision in September 2025. Fiserv, Inc. was the top detractor, driven by a guidance reduction following the disclosure that management had used aggressive tactics to boost short-term revenue at the expense of long-term customer relationships.

U.S. equity markets were strong, but returns were heavily concentrated in a small number of Artificial Intelligence ("AI")-related and mega-cap stocks. AI disruption fears then intensified into a fever pitch by early 2026, creating meaningful dislocations in high quality businesses as the market failed to differentiate between companies that would benefit from, be disrupted by, or be unaffected by AI.
